

The ChinaCom.com e-World women's chess championship to be held in New York City

New York, NY May 03, 2004

China Communications Corp., "ChinaCom," presents the e-World Women's Chess Championship Series of 2004. The first round, The French-American Women's Chess Championship, is to be held September 16-17th 2004, at the Russian Samovar in New York City. A press conference will be held May 14, 2004, 5:30 pm, at the same location. Attending the Press Conference will be the City of New York Sports Commissioner Kenneth Podziba, American Champion Irina Krush, and French Champion Almira Skripchenko.

This world-class chess event, sanctioned by The New York City Sports Commission, the US Chess Federation, and the Association of Chess Professionals, will be the first to be broadcast in China via the Internet, with real-time move-by-move commentary, in Chinese, French and English.

The finals in the e-World Women's Chess Championship will feature the winner of the French-American Event against Zhu Chen, representing China and Women's Chess World Champion. The finals will be held December 7-8th 2004 in New York City.

"It is my pleasure to welcome the French-American Women's Chess Championship to New York City, said New York City Sports Commissioner Kenneth Podziba. People from around the world will be watching closely as these Champions square off to defend their countries in a battle of great minds".

The French-American Championship will feature Almira Skripchenko, who was crowned European Women's Champion in 2001 and Top-Rated French Woman in Chess for 2004, versus Irina Krush, who in 1998 was the youngest woman to win the American Championship and is currently The Top-Rated Woman Player in the USA.

"This International event aims to enhance French-American cultural friendship," said ChinaCom CEO Robb Allen.
